The Gospel today talks about a wedding in Galilee. At a wedding usually the bride and groom take pride and place, but not in this case, importance is given to one of the guests - Jesus.

In Galilee, as in most rural Jewish communities, a wedding would be a most enjoyable and longed for occasion. It would often last for days, families and friends would accompany the newlyweds eating and drinking, dancing and singing. On this particular occasion Mary, mother of Jesus, suddenly breaks terrible news; "They have no wine." This was really a tragedy, much more than we can imagine. The celebrations are meant to last for days; people had prepared and were looking forward to this moment as a break from their hard lives for a long time. For a young couple, running out of wine at their wedding would be considered a curse that would accompany them for the rest of their lives.

Wine was an indispensable element at a Jewish wedding. For those simple people wine was the most expressive symbol of love and joy. Tradition itself declared that God gives "Wine to gladden the heart of man" (Psalm 104). What kind of wedding would it be without love and without joy? How could the celebrations continue with sad and empty hearts?

On the patio there were six stone water jars. They're massive. The jars are set in a fixed place full of water for the purifications that the Jews would carry out. They represent the religious piety of that simple agricultural people who wished to live 'purely' before God. Jesus transforms the water into wine, ALL OF IT. His intervention is symbolic; he would continue to introduce more love and joy into that religion.

How can we even pretend to follow Jesus without caring more about the love and joy between us? What could be more important than this in the Church and in the world? Nothing could be sadder than to say of a Christian community - "They have no wine."
