Fourth Sunday of Lent (Laetare Sunday)

26th/27th March 2022

Readings: Parish Mass Book Year C, Volume 1: (Page 168): Joshua 5:9-12; Psalm 33; 2 Corinthians 5:17-21;

Luke 15:1-3, 11-32

Next Week: Fifth Sunday of Lent (Page 176): Isaiah 43:16-21; Psalm 125; Philippians 3:8-14; John 8:1-11

Then he came to his senses and said, "I will leave this place and go to my father and say: Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you..."

The parable of the prodigal son, which Jesus tells in this Sunday's Gospel passage, shows the contrast between the Pharisees' and scribes' closed and intolerant heart, and God's compassion towards repentant sinners. Jesus uses this parable to paint the picture of God his Father, who desires not the death of a sinner but that he repents of his sinful ways and lives. (Ezekiel 18:23, 33:11)

Jesus' response to the Temple and civil authorities' complaint is a reminder of the true meaning of the Law and Prophets - mercy and not sacrifice. (Hosea 6:6; Matthew 9:13) His response is a caution against the danger of safe acclaimed sainthood. By being so unaccommodating and questioning Jesus for welcoming "the tax collectors and the sinners", the Pharisees and scribes seek to deny them of the free gift of God's mercy to all, made fully manifest in Jesus Christ. Self-righteousness can breed intolerance and arrogance towards others. How do we see ourselves in relation to others?

The parable of the prodigal son bears fruits of self-awareness. At long last, and upon an honest self-examen, the prodigal son understood that his fate was self-inflicted. Unlike the Pharisees and scribes, he humbled and thought himself no longer deserving of his place as son. He also saw for himself that he deserved better than he had done to himself with his freedom. To come out of this, he mustered the courage to go to his father and ask for his forgiveness. His sorrow for his past and his father's generous heart brought him restoration back into the family he had abandoned. Self-examen and prayer are helpful tools which we too can use to improve our relationship with God and with fellow human beings.

Repentance begins with being truly sorry for the wrongs we did to God and to one another, ask for forgiveness and resolve to live better in the future. The Church invites us to rejoice on this fourth Sunday of Lent because God has already reconciled us to himself through Christ. All we now have to do is to "leave this place and go to my father and say: Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you..."
